

A Reasonable Plea For The Stomach

If Your Stomach Is Lacking in Digestive Power, Why Not Help the Stomach Do Its Work—Especially When It Costs Nothing to Try?

Not with drugs, but with a reinforcement of digestive acids, such as the activity as with the stomach. Scientific analysis shows that digestion requires proper stimulants, fermenta and the secretion of hydrochloric acid. When your food fails to digest, it is proof positive that some of these acids are lacking in your digestive system.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain nothing but these natural stomachs necessary to digestion and when placed at work in the weak stomach and small intestine, supply what these organs need. They stimulate the gastric glands and gradually bring the digestive system back to its normal condition.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been subjected to critical chemical tests at home and abroad and are found to be nothing but natural digestion.

Chemical Laboratory, "The London Dispensary," London, England, No. 11029, Central, 20, Cannon St., London, E. C., 1901.

I have analyzed most carefully a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets (10 tablets) and found that they contain the proper amount of the active principle of the stomach, the pepsin, manufactured by the P. A. Stuart Co., 60 Clarendon St., Boston, E. C., and have to report that I cannot find any trace of vegetable or mineral poisons. Knowing the importance of the stomach to the human system, I am of opinion that they are admirably adapted for the purpose for which they are intended.

Blind.

John R. Hunter, F. R. C. S., F. R. C. S. There is no secret in the promotion of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Their composition is completely known, sound physicians, as is shown by the recommendations of 40,000 licensed physicians in the United States and Canada. They are the most powerful of all remedies for indigestion, dyspepsia, weak brain, insomnia, loss of appetite, nervousness, constipation, dizziness and kindred diseases originating from imperfect digestion and assimilation of food. They are thoroughly reliable and harmless to man or child.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are as much a safe and a powerful remedy, one of these tablets being strong enough to digest 2,000 grains of meat, and other foods. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest your food for you when your stomach can't.

Ask your druggist for a five cent box or one as you direct for a five cent sample package and you will be warranted at the result. P. A. Stuart Co., 60 Clarendon St., Boston, E. C.

MANY TURKEYS, BUT PRICE UP

by the Salvation Army and an address was made by Colonel Clifford. The banquet of People's Palace will be set aside for the people who wish to be given a feast.

The Episcopal City Board of Missions, under the charge of Rev. P. B. Allen, will distribute turkey and chicken to various sections of the city. Through his women's aid society in East Boston, South Boston and parts of the South End, turkey and chicken will be distributed to the poor.

Old Folks Remembered.

It is more than 900 pounds of turkey and chicken will be sent to many homes of families. The large families will have a double supply of staples. This year food will be furnished in many instances in proportion to the number in the family. It is also pointed by them that the aged shall in all cases be remembered.

HUNDREDS FLEE CHelsea FIRE

Several hundred persons, before daylight today, fled from the building No. 2, West Street, Chelsea, that in their sleep clothing and carrying household effects in their arms.

The building contains hundreds of persons, most of them Irish. There are some persons entrance to the place, and as a result police and firemen had hard work preventing a stampede.

Policeman George Bates discovered the fire in the grocery store of William McKinnis. It was burning brightly in the corner. Bates awakened McKinnis, who with his wife and three children, escaped the apartment unharmed. They left at once and the policeman and stevedore fought the flames until the department arrived.

Instantly from all parts of the long building came the cries of the awakened inmates.

In the midst of the clutter now in the building, many persons were seen running, loaded down with effects, toward the street. Some carried their children in their arms, and others their babies in their arms.

One mother in a child as soon as she had reached the sidewalk and looked at her child. She carried the child in her arms and the second person to be seen was a young girl, who had put it down in the street. The father went back and found the young girl sitting on the floor where he had left her.

The fire did $100 worth of damage, $75 of which was covered by insurance.

COMMON SENSE IN MEDICINE

Many Good People "Cannot Afford to Be Sick"—Proprietary Medicines Efficient and Economical.

Wealthily families do not feel obliged to consider the matter of expense in case medical treatment is needed. They can afford to consult physicians, to get prescriptions and to have medicines specially put up for them. Most families, however, and they are the bones and sinews of the country, intelligent, prudent, economical men and women, have so little to go and come on that professional services are out of the question, except where they are absolutely necessary.

These families, these millions of men and women of only ordinary means, regard it as "common sense in medicine" to avail themselves of the leading proprietary medicines, which are so remarkably efficient and so easily obtainable.

The makers of Hood's Sarsaparilla are justified in saying that for all the diseases and ailments for which this great medicine is recommended thousands of families have found it entirely satisfactory. It is unquestionably the leading proprietary medicine for impure blood, lack of strength, that tired feeling, loss of appetite, and for feverish troubles, such as rheumatism, neuralgia, skin diseases, dizziness, blood-poisoning, head, neuralgia, and other diseases.

Henry D. Frink, Gloucester, N. Y., says: "I had a large bunch on my neck, which appeared to be cancerous. I have taken a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and the bunch has disappeared."

Any preparation said to be "just as good" as Hood's Sarsaparilla is inferior, costs less to make, and yields the dealer a larger profit. Insist on having Hood's Sarsaparilla, the only standard form of tablets called Sarsaparilla.

SUFFERING FROM ECZEMA

Necessary While Posing, the Perfect Remedy, Quickly Heals.

Ecema, that many-formed skin ailment, which authorities agree is usually caused by a disordered diet, never permanent and is generally found in those who are otherwise healthy. Pustules have been accomplished more remarkable cures of this and other skin diseases than any remedy known. It is applied directly upon the diseased spot, killing at once and clearing and healing the skin, restoring it to perfect condition. The great majority of cases yield in from two to four weeks. Acne, eczema, hives, and all similar aggravating troubles are likewise cured.

Merely a small quantity of Puslan used for clearing the complexion, restoring eruptions, pimples, rashes, and blotches is sufficient to show what it can do. Puslan is sold by all druggists. It is a perfect remedy for all skin diseases. It is a perfect remedy for all skin diseases. It is a perfect remedy for all skin diseases.

TURKEYS FOR SLATER WORKERS FOSS IS AFTER HARVARD BARS

Mrs. Horatio Slater and Children to Glad Hands of Their Employes Thanksgiving.

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

There is a premium on babies in Webster, Tex., at the moment, the more turkey, the better. That may sound queer, but it is the motto of the mother who is Mrs. Horatio N. Slater and her children, who own the great Slater Mill in Webster are presenting the turkey, the end of their family, with their Thanksgiving turkeys and all the things.

There are turkeys of all sizes and sorts, and Mrs. Slater, who is a firm believer in large families, has issued orders to the effect that the families must have the most babies that get the biggest and best of the turkeys. No again "Turkey for the babies!"

The people in Webster, besides having their babies to be thankful for, have like-wise the extra effort to grace their festive boards.

It is a wonder there are any turkeys left with which the poor hungry people of Boston may satisfy their Thanksgiving appetite the other day for that well-known market town. Surely no one there will go hungry—but how about Boston?

I really didn't know there were enough people in Webster to eat so many turkeys, but there must be, for the Slater family who among all the good folk of the market to their tremendous order was none other than Mrs. Slater, and the turkeys are her annual gift to the mill employes.

There are all size fat, round Vermont turkeys at it, and are being distributed today with all the Slater family on hand to watch the fun and with the recipients, a joyful Thanksgiving.

The countless gift this year comes as more or less of a surprise to the recipients of mill hands who for years have looked to the Slater family for their Thanksgiving feast, as it was thought that the mill by this time would have changed hands and so they all decided that the city of Thanksgiving is filled to overflowing, for the family could not afford to buy a turkey, but they are all ready for the turkey.

Mrs. Slater, who is a firm believer in large families, has issued orders to the effect that the families must have the most babies that get the biggest and best of the turkeys.

For weeks the heads of the various departments have been busy making lists of the names of the families, and for weeks Mrs. Slater and her daughter, Esther, have been planning their campaign.

Ever since she was a child in pigtails and plumes Mrs. Slater, who is to be presented at a ball in Webster, has been known as the little Lady Hamilton of Webster, for her distinguished mother, her real happiness seems to come through giving out making others as happy as she is herself. That is a fact which Mrs. Slater is known among her intimates as the "little Lady Hamilton" of Webster, for her distinguished mother, her real happiness seems to come through giving out making others as happy as she is herself.

Charles Slater, who was private secretary for Mr. Slater for eight years, is now Mr. Slater's private secretary. He is in charge of the Slater family, and is now Mr. Slater's private secretary. He is in charge of the Slater family, and is now Mr. Slater's private secretary.

The two Slater boys, who will, no doubt, one day own the Slater family, are now Mr. Slater's private secretaries. They are in charge of the Slater family, and are now Mr. Slater's private secretaries.

Boys Are Popular. Two Slater boys, who will, no doubt, one day own the Slater family, are now Mr. Slater's private secretaries. They are in charge of the Slater family, and are now Mr. Slater's private secretaries.

IRISH PLAYERS AGAIN HISSED IN NEW YORK. NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—There was one echo last night of the rioting which accompanied the performance of "The Day After Tomorrow" in its initial performance here when the scene was reached that was considered the most objectionable by those who thought that it depicted the Irish race, a slight stream of hisses was sent across the stage, and the scene was ended by the actors who were seated in the front of the house.

FOSS FREES BOY RECORD EATER TO AID MOTHER DEFIES RIVALS

Just before leaving the Slater House for Charleston, S. C., today, Governor Foss signed a law freeing a boy, a record eater, to aid his mother. The boy, who is now in the Slater House, is a record eater, and is now in the Slater House.

WOTE BRIBERS

Governor Foss, before leaving today for Charleston, S. C., where he is to make an address before the Society of St. Andrew, declared that he was determined to take the truth about vote buying in New England, and if it was found that any man had the guilty person will be brought to the State prison.

The denunciation of the ballot and the corruption of the electorate, said the Governor, "is at the very foundation of the government of the people and for the people."

"I shall exert every influence in my power to ascertain the truth in regard to the alleged extensive buying of votes in New Bedford and if discovered reveal that appears to be too true, somebody will be punished."

I hope that Judge Milken will cooperate with the State police so that the vote may be ascertained and help afforded. Judge Milken refused to do so, saying that a Massachusetts voter can be bought.

Testimony is Refused. Judge Frank A. Milken today refused a letter from Governor Foss asking for a copy of the testimony of a witness who had been taken before him some years ago. Judge Milken refused to do so, saying that a Massachusetts voter can be bought.

MRS. PANKHURST

Boston Suffragists expressed their indignation today over the refusal of the corporation of Harvard to allow Mrs. Pankhurst to speak at the graduation exercises. Mrs. Pankhurst is a well-known suffragist and has been active in the cause of women's rights.

This committee, of which Walter Taylor, of the Boston Herald, is chairman, thought it had been selling when it engaged Mrs. Pankhurst to make an address at the new lecture hall, where Mrs. Pankhurst is to give a course of lectures on the subject of "The Rights of Women."

It is a shame that the corporation of Harvard should refuse to allow Mrs. Pankhurst to speak at the graduation exercises. It is a shame that the corporation of Harvard should refuse to allow Mrs. Pankhurst to speak at the graduation exercises.

La Touraine Perfect Coffee. A STERLING MARK. An unusually severe test of La Touraine Flavor was made before several hundred persons during a Boston Food Fair.

It was suggested that this delicious flavor was due to the modern apparatus used. Our President then stepped to a nearby booth, purchased a can of tomatoes, emptied the contents and scalded the can, and in a primitive way made La Touraine Coffee. This was served to the keenly interested visitors who pronounced the flavor unchanged.

La Touraine does solve the fine coffee problem. Look for the Arab on the bag bearing our name in which you can place the French roasted and French ground coffee. This is your guarantee of the genuine.

FOR THE HOLIDAY
ATHLETIC FANS
SCHOOL SQUADS
JOINT TITLE GAMES

Tomorrow is the day of days for the followers of the high school football teams and marks the closing of the year for most of the teams.

The big attraction in the city is the game of the American League between Boston and New York. The game is an annual feature.

The Warren Avenue boys are the favorites, and judging from past performance should win.

In spite of the fact that the Dorothea-Mechanic Arts team has been called off a game attraction has been looked for the Dorothea-Mechanic Arts team.

St. John's has been called to battle with the Boston team in the first half of the season. This is the first time that the Dorothea-Mechanic Arts team has been called to battle.

Medford-Marian Battle.

The big game will be played in the Marian team, however. The Medford-Marian game is the headliner, although the Dorothea-Mechanic Arts team will also play. The game will receive more than the usual attention.

All followers of the Southern League are interested in the game of the Dorothea-Mechanic Arts team. The game will be played at Medford, and the Dorothea-Mechanic Arts team will receive more than the usual attention.

The Dorothea-Mechanic Arts team will be the favorites, and judging from past performance should win.

Big Game at Salem.

Brookline and Newton clash for the second time this season at Newton and one of the most fought of the season is expected. Newton has one decision against Salem, and Brookline has one against Salem. The game will be played at Newton, and the Brookline team will receive more than the usual attention.

Mr. Hearst on Candidates and the Issues of 1912

The Brooklyn Eagle Saturday printed on its first page the following interview with William Randolph Hearst:

Question. "In your opinion is Colonel Roosevelt a candidate for the Presidency in 1912?"

In my opinion, Colonel Roosevelt always has been a candidate for the Presidency and always will be a candidate for the Presidency.

But I do not think that Colonel Roosevelt will be the candidate of any party for the Presidency in 1912 or in any subsequent year.

Mr. Roosevelt has been President of the United States and has been the most bolder, most bomastic, disturbing and destructive President that the United States has ever had.

It is astounding for Mr. Hearst criticizing Mr. Taft for disturbing business, when Mr.
Roosevelt in his term so completely disturbed business as practically to put it out of business.

Mr. Taft's activities may not be exactly beneficial to business, but the main trouble with him is that he has not yet returned from the panic into which Mr. Roosevelt impelled it by his indiscriminate attacks and indiscriminate utterances.

Mr. Roosevelt's trust policy was, to be sure, more back than got-ting things in all trusts, and certain that he was not a man who got good things about the trusts are the economic advantages of combination. The bad thing about the trusts are the various misuses of the power of monopoly.

And economic big business men,
and American big business men, while secretly aiding those men in their trust transactions, and even inviting them to "practical men" to help him write his public documents.

At the very moment when Mr.
Hearst was being publicly invited by Mr. Roosevelt to be visiting Mr. Roosevelt in Washington, and Mr. Hearst's requests for appointments and promotions were being duly honored by Mr.
Roosevelt.

At the very moment when the Standard Oil Company was being attacked publicly by Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Rogers was being invited to visit Mr. Roosevelt in Washington, and Mr. Hearst's requests
were being duly honored by Mr.
Roosevelt.

At the very moment when the trusts were being denounced publicly by Mr. Roosevelt and their growth declared by Mr. Roosevelt, liberty was being privately granted by Mr. Roosevelt to the Standard Oil Company.

But it was not so much Mr.
Roosevelt's secret dealings with the trust magnates that unsettled business in America as his extravagant and indiscriminate denunciation of American business conditions.

A great part of the capital employed in developing American enterprises is invested from abroad. Those foreign investments are naturally somewhat timid of investments so far from home, and disposed to watch such investments very carefully.

All Mr. Roosevelt's extravagant expressions and indiscriminate attacks were printed in full in the foreign papers, and the foreign investors reading these reports and knowing nothing of Mr.
Roosevelt's secret associations with the trust magnates became upset and at conditions in America which they supposed were unfavorable, related by the President of the United States, and withdrew their capital.

It is an indisputable fact that the tightness of the money market which precipitated the panic of 1907 was first brought about by the wholesale withdrawal of foreign capital.

I personally believe that Mr. Taft is entirely wrong, but I believe that he is honestly wrong.
I believe that combination must be destroyed and that it ought not to be destroyed, that the advantages of combination are many and that all that is necessary for government to do is to control combination and so to regulate its dealings with the public that the public will be allowed to participate in the advantages of combination.

Mr. Roosevelt, however, has and has no policy in regard to the trusts. The only thing that occupied his mind was the trust's policy in regard to Mr. Roosevelt.

When a trust supported Mr.
Roosevelt or contradicted it was a good trust.

When a trust opposed Mr. Roosevelt or differed with him on a matter of policy, it was a bad trust.

Mr. Roosevelt, I say, had no general policy in regard to trusts, but he had a personal policy in regard to this trust or in regard to that trust, and this trust or that trust was a good trust or a bad trust according to Mr. Roosevelt's opportunity to make personal or political capital out of the situation in which it was concerned.

As a matter of fact, from the viewpoint of public policy, there are not good trusts and bad trusts, but merely trusts that get things in all trusts, and certain
the economic advantages of com-
of the power of monopoly.

And economic big business men,
and American big business men,
men" to help him write his
public documents.

At the very moment when Mr.
Hearst was being publicly invited by Mr. Roosevelt to be visiting Mr. Roosevelt in Wash-
for appointments and promotions
were being duly honored by Mr.
Roosevelt.

ington, and Mr. Hearst's requests

growth declared by Mr. Roosevelt, liberty was being privately granted
by Mr. Roosevelt to the Standard Oil Company.

But it was not so much Mr.
Roosevelt's secret dealings with
the trust magnates that unsettled
business in America as his ex-
conditions.

A great part of the capital em-
enterprises is invested from
are naturally somewhat timid of
investments so far from home,
and disposed to watch such investments very carefully.

the foreign papers, and the foreign investors reading these reports and knowing nothing of Mr.
Roosevelt's secret associations
with the trust magnates became
upset and at conditions in America which they supposed were
unfavorable, related by the President of the United States, and
withdrew their capital.

the tightness of the money mar-
by the wholesale withdrawal of
foreign capital.

If Mr. Roosevelt may have done some good things while he was President, I am disposed to concede that he did a number of commendable things. But developing business along any line, and the most simple and legitimate, is not a matter either within the character or capacity of Mr. Roosevelt.

It is a ridiculous thing, therefore, to see Mr. Roosevelt attacking Mr. Taft for disturbing business, when Mr. Roosevelt himself, when President, wholly demoralized and partly destroyed business.

called trusts than Mr. Taft would be?

Undoubtedly Mr. Roosevelt would be more acceptable to some of the so-called trusts than Mr. Taft would be.

Mr. Roosevelt would undoubtedly be more acceptable to the Steel Trust than Mr. Taft, more acceptable to the Sugar Trust than Mr. Taft and more acceptable to any trust that had benefited during Mr. Roosevelt's term of office by Mr. Roosevelt's passive protection or active assistance.

I do not think that Mr. Roosevelt would be more acceptable to the average business man, big or little, than Mr. Taft. As a matter of fact, I think that the average business man who has no special favors to ask of government, and only desires a government which will insure generally acceptable business conditions, is more likely to vote for the Democratic candidate in this country.

Presidential campaign than for either Mr. Taft or Mr. Roosevelt.
If the Democrats have only the intelligence and judgment to nominate an able man, not too identifically with the requirements of the market of the citizenry, but with sound business views, and with the sense to encourage all honest business along legitimate lines, he will be overwhelmingly elected, and his election will be of incalculable benefit to the country.

The country needs a government which will encourage all legitimate business and will compel all business to be legitimate.
The country needs a government which will protect the benefits of business conditions.
General Grant's immortal motto:
"Let us have peace." Let us have peace, but with honor—with the peace of the public considered first, and above all, but without any unnecessary interference with business after the interests of the public have been properly protected.

Let us have peace, and let us have a definite policy of constructive legislation which will insure peace.

Let us have peace and harmony and cooperation and prosperity.
Let us proceed to the creation of the greatest possible wealth and to a just and equitable division and distribution of wealth, not for the benefit of any individual, but for the general advantage of the whole community.

Question. "Do you think Mr.
Taft will be the Republican nominee?"

I think Mr. Taft will be the Republican nominee if his cold will hold out long enough and he keep him at home long enough; otherwise, I think he will be succeeded by Mr. Roosevelt, who will attend to the public business that he was elected by the people.

The best claims and credentials of any President for re-election are the records of his business achievements. Those records can be found and they work in Washington. Instead of words throughout the country.

What the American people have a great respect for the office of President, and that they do not like to see their President caring about the country obviously soliciting votes for a second term.

I think that Mr. Taft has invested himself in every one of his junkies, and that he would be increasingly stronger with the people today if he had stayed in Washington and spent his time in personal solicitation.

Only Mr. Taft can prevent his own nomination, but Mr. Taft's election will depend not only upon Mr. Taft, but also and more persistently upon the Democratic nomination. If that is a wise one, a popular one and a truly Democratic one, not Taft nor any other Republican will win in this election.

Question. Will the progressives nominate a third ticket?

I do not think the progressive Republicans alone will nominate a third ticket, even though they should be greatly dissatisfied with the regular Republican combination, but it is possible, in fact probable, that if the Republican convention should nominate a reactionary candidate and the Democratic convention should nominate a reactionary candidate the Republican and Democratic progressives would then unite in a third party, nominate a third ticket and elect it.

I feel confident that such a ticket, if a representative one, would be elected. The vast majority of the people of this country have come to be progressive.
They are tired of reactionary policies, they are tired of un-meaning and unproductive reforms from the old parties.
They are, perhaps each one of them, a particular person who will be the party of genuine progress and reform.

Principle has become more potent than party. The vast majority of the people of this country. The era of education has passed. The era of conviction and action has come. The people have discovered wrong and have devised what is necessary to set it right. Parties are passing in accordance with the public will or they will secure no public support.

The prospect of success for the Democratic party are bright, not merely because the Democratic party has been in the demand of the people, but because the Democratic party is Congress and in most of the States Congress has been sincerely and successfully endeavoring to carry out the will of the people.

The Democratic party has largely regulated the confidence of the people, which for a long time it had lost. In Congress it has shown itself capable as well as conscientious, judicious as well as progressive. It was given a trial in the last election, and where it has shown its worth it has regained the public support. In New York, where it has shown itself corrupt and incompetent, it has been successfully elected from power, and this is a sincere satisfaction to all good citizens and to all good Democrats. It makes the Democratic contrast clear, the patriotic lesson plain.

If the Democratic party shall continue to be sincere and conscientious on a truly progressive platform it will deserve the support of the people, which will be certainly and inevitably secured.

But if the Democratic party in convention should be influenced by the public demands, faithful to its own principles and principles, it will be defeated—and it will be defeated.

With two reactionary tickets in the field I believe that a third progressive party will be formed; that it will embrace the progressives of both of the old parties; that it will contain progressive candidates, and elect the President of the United States.

I believe that the Democrats are in an actual majority of the reactionaries, and that with the reactionaries and the progressives the progressives would be in an actual majority of the reactionaries and the progressives would be assured.

Question. "Do you think it is likely to be the Progressive party or the Democratic party?"

Do not know. I have indicated the kind of man that I think ought to be the Democratic nominee.

Question. "Whom do you favor for the Presidency?"

I am in favor of any good man who is a good Democrat and a sound progressive. I have been disposed to favor Champ Clark or Charles McNamara, but I think they have both been mainly responsible for the highly creditable work of the Democrats in Congress, and because of that I think they are not the best candidates for the Presidency.

These gentlemen have shown that they are the public interest, great conscientiousness and sincerity in adherence to Democratic principles, and in judgment and moderation in their action.

I believe, too, that the time has come when the claims of the South for recognition by the Democratic party should be seriously considered. I believe that the South is in a position to establish the party in the good opinion of the public than any other thing done or could have been done.
